Re-Inspire the Fire

Memory support staff are special people—they possess the ability to see the best in a person, even when the disease takes away so much.

What happens when these professionals start to lose their fire, and start going back to old ways? This session will identify ways to re-inspire the fire in your staff by identifying typical problems in staffing support, to finding new ways to empower, enlighten, and reboot their passion.

After attending this course participants will be able to:

- Recognize ways to identify if your staff are still good fits for your program.
- Identify successful leadership roles. Tolerating or Team player... what kind of leader are you?
- Identify ways to re-inspire your staff through empowerment- letting them take the lead.
- Examine your training styles—Don't let them count the ceiling tiles!
- Analyze your program through staff evaluation—Are you talking to the Natives who are Restless???
